Beginning in 2006, OCIL embarked on a business plan to obtain greater spread of risk in the energy industry through growth in direct business as well as assumed reinsurance through partnerships with other leaders in the energy insurance arena. In pursuit of this business plan, OCIL is pleased to announce an alliance with EIM, through a reinsurance transaction, that enables EIM to reinstate the maximum limits available to its members to $100 million for excess general liability insurance coverage.

EIM's CEO, Scott Goodell stated "This alliance with OCIL is evidence of EIM's continuing efforts to meet the needs of EIM's Members. Our Members and their brokers will continue to receive policies written by EIM, whose A rating was recently reaffirmed by A.M. Best".

The alliance demonstrates the unified goal of providing substantial capacity to the energy industry and builds on previous cooperative ventures between the two companies, such as sponsorship of The Energy School to be held at St. Joseph's University in April.

Information on EIM and OCIL can be found on their respective web sites www.eimltd.com and www.ocil.bm.
